THE GOLDEN CHAMPLAIN CANTALOUPE

APR 9 1930 ★

Department of Agriculture

The general outside color is gray, from the netting, underlaid with dark green. The flesh is a rich, golden color, very tender, juicy and sweet, fine grained and free from stringiness, and uniformly delicious clear to the rind. Fine reports come from north, south, east, and west. Many people have succeeded with this melon only.

Golden Champlain Cantaloupe

Our melon has been on the market for nine years and is still unequalled in earliness, which is admitted by all who have tried it ; its remarkable hardiness, which makes it a sure crop melon ; its delicious flavor, heavy yield, fine appearance and good handling qualities. These enable you to establish a high class trade before other melons are ready for market.

The Golden Champlain lessens your risk from frost, plant diseases and insects. It lowers your expense of hoeing and cultivating because full growth is reached sooner. No other melon has ever come near the record of our melon, as it ripens its fruit in 57 days from the time of planting the seed in open field.

REPORTS FROM GROWERS

Have tried many kinds of early melons but so far the Golden Champlain has them all beaten. Quality good, vines vigorous and healthy. Melon crop was a failure here this year; the only ones I had were from the Champlain. T. B. F., Eau Claire, Wis.

OHIO

"Your Golden Champlain melon surpasses any other I have ever grown. Was at least 3 weeks earlier than any other variety. The quality was fine. My whole crop was consumed by the first town I went to. Have grown cantaloupe for 18 years, but now realize was never really in the melon business before." — E. T. C., Green Springs.

CANADA

"Entirely satisfied with the Golden Champlain, and will want a supply of seed this year. The crop was harvested and sold before the next variety was ready for the market." — G. C. B., Fonthill, Ontario.

MICHIGAN

"The Golden Champlain is the earliest I know, and also excels in vigor and growth. Last summer it was the only melon that did anything worth while here." — L. C., Plymouth, Mich.

NEW YORK

"Have grown melons for market for 35 years and find your Golden Champlain to be one of the best I have grown. Extra early, vigorous grower, and fine quality." — G. W. P., Scherectady, N. Y.
